

I have spent the last five years crisscrossing the United States capturing images of oil and gas production operations for some of Americas top oil companies. I am a multiple award winning photographer with over thirty years experience. My sense of light and scale make for dramatic images that help define operations and highlight assets for small and large corporations.

My images have been used for Annual Reports, investor relations, company historical records, documenting sites, and striking wall art. My experience traveling, working in the field and interacting with employees on site help me create these spectacular images.

See how I can help your company capture your facilities and the environment in which your people work in every day.

I also produce striking Executive Portraits and spectacular images of industrial machinery on location. I have produced images of medical/ surgical equipment and flawless macro images for Alcon Laboratories, Fort Worth.

My style also works well with architectural projects both interior and exterior.
